Used in Medical Facilities Nationwide, USA Skypanels™ Announces the Release of its Newest Creation – The Jacaranda Tree

Skypanels™ promote a feeling of calmness and lend relief from the harsh glare of traditional light diffusers.

North Hollywood, CA (February 4, 2009) – Medical facilities across the nation have eagerly anticipated the release of Skypanels™ newest addition in decorative light diffusers – the Jacaranda Tree. This is the ninth design in Skypanels™ already successful line of products.

For some people, a trip to a medical facility can cause anxiety. Fear of an uncomfortable visit or poor diagnosis can oftentimes dissuade patients from making a doctor appointment. Of course there are other times when a visit isn't an option and a patient needs to receive immediate medical care. The makers of Skypanels™ are sensitive to both the anxiety and stress patients may feel when faced with these situations.

Studies have shown that patients who could view a tree or the sky from their windows sited elevated moods, less anxiety, and shorter recovery time. While it is not possible to view the outdoors from every room in a medical facility, Skypanels™ have solved this problem by creating a decorative line of light diffuser panels that fit into standard fluorescent ceiling fixtures in most hospitals, medical facilities, and commercial offices. Patients receiving treatment in locations with Skypanels™ may feel a calming effect as they will no longer be subjected to the harsh glare of traditional overhead lighting and they will have a beautiful scene from nature to look at during their course of treatment.

"We placed Skypanels™ in our exam rooms," Karen Carroll, Obstetrics and Gynecology from Virginia Beach, VA said. "Patients always comment on how beautiful they are and express appreciation for the view. They look great and make both patients and staff feel that a breath of the outdoors has come inside."

Skypanels™ capture the essence of nature while creating an illusion of being under real skies and other natural therapeutic settings. Skypanels™ are custom designed, decorative translucent panels, that fit into standard fluorescent ceiling fixtures and replace the dull, brittle, plastic stock diffusers found in most commercial offices, hospitals, schools, and homes. Skypanels™ have been attributed to reducing tension and headaches by providing relief from the harsh glare of traditional overhead diffuser lighting. By creating a feeling of being outdoors, Skypanels™ users sited elevated moods, feelings of calmness, as well as an increased overall sense of well being, as compared to those who worked under traditional light diffusers.

Used by thousands of customers nationwide, USA Skypanels™ delivers quality products at affordable pricing. Coming in a variety of designs ranging from clouds, to colorful blossoms, to a variety of trees, and hot air balloons, Skypanels™ bring the relaxation and color of the outdoors, into a variety of interior settings including healthcare facilities, offices, conference rooms, retail spaces, spas, hotels, restaurants, homes and schools.

Skypanels™ can be ordered individually or as a set, creating a virtual sky. Installing Skypanels™ is easy and can be completed in minutes with minimal effort. Weighing 1.75 pounds and measuring 24" x 48", Skypanels™ can be cut with a razor blade to fit into any ceiling space. Made from 100% acrylic with the images screen printed directly onto the panels, Skypanels™ are built to last for up to 20 years under normal inside lighting conditions and for up to 10 years outdoors. Skypanels™ are created with a protective layer of UV coating.
